Bunge Ukraine (Oleina TM)

BRIEF BIOGRAPHY:

Andrzej already served as the Board Member for 5 years responsible for the Agricultural Committee when he worked in Ukraine during the previous assignment. He has a diverse background in agribusiness and for 20 years worked in various management roles in Cargill. In 2012, Andrzej joined Bunge as Vice President Bunge Central Europe and later became Head of Black Sea region with Luis Dreyfus Company before re-joining Bunge in 2019 and returning to Ukraine.

Andrzej has deep commercial expertise in agribusiness and food ranging from the commodity side to the value-added products, profound knowledge of the region as well as strong expertise in the global agricultural supply chain. His work in Bunge includes regional management of soft seeds crush value chain and acting as the country director for several countries, including Ukraine.

Bunge Ukraine is a division of Bunge Limited (www.bunge.com, NYSE: BG), the leading global agribusiness and food company founded in 1818 and headquartered in St. Luis, Missouri. Bunge is a public company with more than 23,000 employees working across more than 350 facilities in more than 40 countries. In Ukraine Bunge produces Oleina bottled oil and is a major sunflower seed processor and exporter of grain.

Bunge invested half a billion US dollars in Ukraine within last 20 years in crushing plants, grain port terminal, inland grain silos and a corn processing plant.

Andrzej graduated from SGH Warsaw School of Economics and holds a Master Degree in Economics.

Why do you think membership in the American Chamber of Commerce is important for business operating in Ukraine?

The ACC has always been a unique platform and a thinktank facilitating B2G dialogue. I was privileged to serve in the Board during my last assignment to Ukraine and insured Chamber's focus on creating a more level playing field in Ukraine for both international and local investors. The ACC has always put on a spotlight key challenges and achievements of the Ukrainian Government enabling to improve regulation and remove barriers for investment, foster economic growth and unlock economic potential. Apart from the industry representation, for many members the Chamber can also be instrumental in escalating their specific company issues to the top level. It is important that the Board has a high level of commitment and ownership to foster this work.

What motivates you to be a Chamber Board Member?

I have remained focused on Ukraine and was closely following political and economic developments in the country. I further believe it is important that the Board gets proportional voice of all industries and lately agriculture was apparently underrepresented despite being one of the key industries for the country. In this role my focus would be on improving the regulation for existing investors and promoting more FDIs in this sector. I am willing to devote my vast experience and strategic view of the agricultural sector for the benefit of the Chamber's members.

Why do you feel you are qualified to serve on the Chamber Board? What skills would you bring to the Board?

As a CEO of the key market player and investor in agriculture and food sectors in Ukraine, I am fully committed to provide strategic guidance and leadership for the Board on the variety of agricultural and infrastructural issues. In the past I worked close with the ACC's Agriculture Committee to improve situation with the VAT reimbursement. I am convinced that my continues focus on the issue of VAT and building support from the US Government, the European Commission, and the IMF was instrumental in solving the matter.

How have you been active in the Chamber over the course of the last two years?

Bunge has always been active in the Agricultural, Infrastructural and Tax Committees of the ACC also often co-chairing such Committees. The pandemics prompted us to switch more to the online communication but once the situation improves, I hope we can get back to in-person communication as well.

What activity or Committee would you participate in and be responsible for?

As the CEO with a solid background in agriculture, I would like to be responsible for this industry and the Agricultural or the Infrastructure Committees of the Chamber.
